

The success of every project we complete begins with our team of construction professionals. At Heroica, our leaders have exceptional experience managing complex deliverables, uncovering efficiencies, solving problems, and executing projects. No matter how different each new project may be, one thing never changes – our core values. As a company, we relentlessly pursue great service, safety, integrity, quality craftsmanship, accountability, and professionalism. Each member of our leadership team plays a vital role in guaranteeing that our clients needs come first, while ensuring that our projects are completed on time and on budget.

JHONNY LEVYA President

Jhonny is a graduate of Bryant University with a degree in Business and Marketing. In 2009, Jhonny bought the family business and grew it from a residential construction company to the multi-million dollar company it is today. Heroica Construction has completed and negotiated many impressive contracts with well known clients in the Rhode Island and Massachusetts business community, including Brown University, Johnson & Wales, Roger Williams, the Procaccianti Group, Carpionato Properties, Foxwoods Resort Casino, Gilbane Building Company, Bond Brothers, and Keith Construction. Under Jhonny's leadership, Heroica has completed a variety of construction projects ranging from dormitories and multi-residential complexes to commercial and industrial work. These projects include Essex Village and Kings Grant in Warwick, and the Wiggins Village Apartments, Oliver Perry Middle School, and St. Xavier Hall in Providence.

STANFORD CAMERON Project Executive

Stanford has a long history of architecture and construction experience. He has studied the field of architecture from high school into college at Howard University. While working for firms in Washington D.C. and Rhode Island, he was ranked top in his field as a structural and architectural draftsman. In 1980, Stanford started his own construction business and ran it successfully until he retired in 2010 to become a consultant to owners, general contractors, subcontractors, and agencies. During his time in business, Stanford has completed multi-residential, single residential, commercial, hotel, and industrial projects. He has worked alongside some of the largest builders and developers in the industry, namely Gilbane, Dimeo, Aspen Group, and many more. Through his dedication and experience in the fields of construction and architecture, Stanford was certified as an instructor by the National Center for Construction Education. For several years, he developed and taught estimating and project management classes using advance software solutions such as Sage 100, Sage 300, Microsoft, Google Office Suites, Bluebeam, and more.v

LOU MOYA Sr. Project Manager

Lou's career in construction began in 1984 with on-the-job training as a junior estimator for Herbert Construction of New York City. During his eight years of employment with Herbert, Lou gained tremendous knowledge of the trade, building material, and the construction industry as a whole. Over the past 20 years in the industry, Lou has worked for several construction contractors as an estimator and project manager. He has honed his skills through the estimation and management of major projects such as public schools, the IRS Building, Pawtucket Water Supply, Providence College, Rhode Island College, and multiple residential renovations.

LIBELL SERRANO Assistant Project Manager

Libell is a graduate of UCONN and currently plays the role of Assistant Project Manager. She supports the day-to-day project management operations on projects and provides support for the Project Manager, who is ultimately responsible for managing and coordinating all the necessary resources and documentation throughout the entire project lifecycle. She's responsible for reviewing and tracking contracts, pricing, purchase orders, change orders, shop drawings, submittals, insurance certificates and Requests for Information (RFI). Libell also works on submitting building permits, planning revision submissions to municipalities; collaborating with Counsel on contract and insurance modifications and discrepancies.

RICHARD DELLEFEMINE General Superintendent

Richard Dellefemine joins the Heroica Construction team as a superintendent. He comes with an impressive resume and he is certainly qualified to deal with complexities of many projects. Richard is a statesman and knows how to handle himself in the field or the board room. He typically supervises the foremen across small and large sites. Richard is responsible for assigning teams to specific jobs, providing training for new hires or directing workers on the order of tasks to be performed. Regardless of the level of direct supervision provided, it is normally the job of the construction superintendent to inspect work performed by employees, other contractors and sub-contractors.

YONNY LEYVA General Superintendent

Yonny has over 25 years of experience as a tradesman with specialties in painting and carpentry. He is an extremely talented painter with a vast experience performing high level paint work that includes paint application, primers, solvents, sealants, caulk to wood, plaster, sheet rock, concrete, synthetic interior finishes, and exterior finishes. Yonny excels at maintaining and securing both commercial and residential facilities, all while keeping them in safe working condition and making the necessary repairs. Yonny can produce high-end finishes in several trades including (but not limited to) finish carpentry, ceramic tile, VCT and sheet vinyl flooring, drywall, taping and more. The majority of Yonny's experience covers single family and multifamily projects, but since joining Heroica, he has expanded his talents to include commercial, institutional, and hotel projects. Yonny is committed to producing top-quality work along his team members to achieve organizational goals.

RYAN SEARS Estimator

Ryan is a recent graduate of Fitchburg State University with a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration with a minor in Construction Technology. During his time at FSU, Ryan took courses in computer information systems, management, business policy, human resource management, production management, construction systems, estimating and bidding, wood fabrication systems, and OSHA. As a recent member of the Heroica Construction team, Ryan will receive on-the-job training in estimating and project management to further complement his skill set. He will be a support arm to the estimators and project managers on staff by keeping job records and databases current. Ryan has experience using the take-off program Plan Swift and can accurately complete take-offs for demolition, painting, metal stud framing, drywall, and acoustical ceiling work.

ROSALBA VENGOCHEA Controller

Since joining Heroica in 2012, Rosalba has been specially trained on the Accounting and Payroll modules of Sage 100. Rosalba handles all vendor account invoices, insurance monitoring, monthly AR statements, payroll, certified payroll reports, petty cash, bank reconciliations, and financial reports for the CPA. She works very closely with the project managers to keep the project accounting records up to date. Rosalba is proficient with office equipment (scanners and faxes) and other software programs like QuickBooks and Microsoft Office Suite. In addition to all of her skills, she is talented at digital communication such as email and online research.

JENNIFER ISABELLA Executive Administrator

Jennifer Isabella joins the team as an administrative clerk. She assists project managers to administer several construction projects at any given time. In addition to those duties, she helps out with human resources and marketing. Jen is a great multi-task and is always ready to apply her admin skills to any task.
